

Animal Chiropractic

Congratulations on your choice to choose Chiropractic for your most valued animal! We find the best results occur when all those involved have clear and mutual objectives. Below are some fundamental points about health and healing:

- The body is designed to be healthy
- Within all of us lay the wisdom of nature, which knows how to mend a broken bone, recover from the flu, and much much more!
- The health of the spine and nerve system are fundamental toward maintaining health
- Stress beyond what the body is capable of handling in a moment can create tension patters throughout the body, spine, and nerve system
- When this happens, our health is diminished
- Chiropractors call these tension patterns "Subluxations," or "Subluxation patterns"
- While many people come to a Chiropractor for help with a specific condition, my sole objective is to help your companion integrate those subluxations so that they can express greater health

I have read the above and agree to have Dr. Brendan Riordan check, and if needed adjust my animal.
